Investigating Government

Grand Jury Not Slated To Meet

By MARIA BRADEN
Associated Press Writer
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A federal grand jury probing alleged wrongdoing in state government was not scheduled to meet today after hearing testimony the two previous days from former state Insurance Commissioner Harold McGuffey.

McGuffey testified for nearly two hours Thursday before the jury, which has been looking into alleged irregularities in the handling of state insurance contracts and agent-licensing procedures.

McGuffey, who also testified Wednesday, declined comment after the closed-door session, saying he was tired.

The former commissioner, who was fired by Gov. Julian Carroll last week, said Wednesday that he gave the jury a step-by-step account of circumstances leading to his dismissal.

Carroll has said he asked for and received McGuffey's resignation because of alleged improper handling of agents' licenses by the Insurance Department.

McGuffey, who had been subpoenaed early last month to testify about the award of state insurance contracts from 1972 to the present, said Wednesday that the latest round of questioning bore "no relation whatsoever" to the earlier phase of the probe.

On Wednesday, McGuffey brought Insurance Department appointment records for 1978 and the current year. On Thursday, his secretary, Faye Roberts, appeared briefly before the jury to submit records for the period 1972-78.

Other witnesses, apparently connected with the insurance probe, included Ted Mims, listed in the Lexington city telephone directory as an agent with the Jack Fife Insurance Agency.

CIVITAN OF THE YEAR — The top annual award of the Murray Civitan Club went to Nick Horton, second from left, as Civitan of the Year for 1978-79. The award was presented at the 21st annual charter night meeting on Thursday evening. Horton has served as president of the club and as chairman of other service projects. Pictured left to right are Mrs. Opal Roberts, president; Larry Paschall, awards chairman; and Charlie Baker, past president of the Civitan International and guest speaker for the program.

Action On T-Hangar Bids To Be Delayed

The Murray-Calloway County Airport Board approved a recommendation to delay action on acceptance or rejection of bids for the proposed T-hangar complex.

The recommendation added that board chairman Hugh Oakley be authorized to apply for a $50,000 loan from the state to be used for the T-hangar construction. Action came in the board meeting Thursday night at the Murray Holiday Inn.

Oakley said currently the lowest bid for the project is $109,000. He added that he has talked with Murray Mayor Melvin B. Henley and Calloway County Judge-Executive Robert O. Miller concerning use of city and county equipment and personnel to lower some of the project's cost.

Oakley explained the local equipment and man-power could be used on the site preparation. He added another board meeting will be called in the near future to finalize plans of the project.

The board authorized that Maurice and Dudley Bourne, owners of Sunbird Corp., be allowed to set up a mobile home-office on the southwest side of the present hangar. The Bournes are to supply all funds for the project.

The board also approved a motion to allow the Bournes to set up a 40-by-40 portion of the hangar for any airplane repairs.

In other action, Oakley said about 1,500 feet of three-strand barb-wire fence is needed along Collins Road. No action was taken.

Airport manager Johnny Parker said the new jet fuel tank has been installed but it has two minor leaks. Parker added the leaks will be fixed and an official inspection of the tank will be conducted.

Hamp Erwin, chairman of the executive committee, reported that Parker recently was certified as a weather observer following completion of a weather observation school.

The board sent Parker to the school following Sunbird's proposal to purchase of certified weather observation equipment.

Oakley reported that the board has not received a final written acceptance from the FAA concerning recent work on the runway. He added he felt confident that an approval would be received in the near future.

The recently installed mike-o-light is ready for flight check, Parker said.

$200,000 Given To Murray State For Furnishings

A sum of $200,000 has been allocated to Murray State University for the purchase of furniture and furnishings for its new University Center by the Interim Joint Appropriations and Revenue Committee of the Kentucky General Assembly.

The decision was rendered at the committee meeting Tuesday, Oct. 30. The motion, recommending that $200,000 be credited to the MSU budget, was made by Sen. Helen Garrett, D-Paducah.

An appropriation of $500,000 for furniture and furnishings in the $8.2-million University Center project was authorized during the 1978 General Assembly session.

Finance department authorities have contended that the $500,000 appropriation was withdrawn by the legislature in special session this year.

Murray State officials did not know the $500,000 had been withdrawn until April.

The finance department authorities added action of the legislature recommended the furniture be purchased by issuing revenue bonds that would be paid by the university.

According to Gilmore Dutton of the legislative research commission, the $200,000 will come from a cumulative budget. He added the agreement said the money would be used for the immediate purchase of those furnishings that have an extended arrival date.

Dutton said the situation also was discussed at an Oct. 5 meeting. Murray State president Constantine W. Curris attended both meetings. Dutton said, in his opinion, Curris felt the arrangement "was satisfactory."

Curris presently is out of town and was not available for comment.

Garrett's motion also recommended that the remaining $300,000 be a supplemental appropriation to the 1979-80 MSU budget to be acted upon by the 1980 General Assembly.

The University Center is scheduled to open in June.

Quad-State Festival To Host 325 Singers

About 325 selected high school singers from 75 schools in four states will be on the campus of Murray State University on Monday, Nov. 5, to participate in the 32nd annual Quad-State Choral Festival.

Students from high schools in Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri, and Illinois will rehearse for a full day before presenting a concert at 7 p.m. in Lovett Auditorium.

Robert K. Baar, festival director, said the public is invited and encouraged to attend the concert at no admission charge. The festival is one of four Quad-State events sponsored each year by the Department of Music at Murray State.

Theron Kirk, chairman of the Department of Music and director of choral activities at San Antonio (Texas) College, will be the guest conductor for the festival. He will conduct the chorus in its performance of his composition entitled "The Temple of the Living God." The Murray State Brass Ensemble will provide accompaniment.

Baar will be the conductor for the chorus' presentation of "Missa Brevis (K194)" by Mozart. The Murray State String Orchestra will accompany the chorus in its singing of that number, which will mark Baar's 26th appearance as a conductor of the festival.

Kirk is the composer of more than 1,000 published works for chorus, symphony, band, chamber groups, and an opera. In addition to his work as a composer, he has a national reputation as a conductor and lecturer.

He has served as a visiting lecturer at some of the leading colleges and universities across the nation and for the past several summers has toured Europe as conductor with the Universal Academy for Music. He served 1968-70 as national president of the 11,000-member American Choral Directors Association.

Kirk has been recognized by Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia music fraternity, by the Minnie Stevens Piper Foundation, and by ASCAP for his contributions to music and for his outstanding scholarly and academic achievement.

Spurt Of Layoffs Pushes Nation's Unemployment Rate To 6 Percent

By OWEN ULLMANN

AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spurt of layoffs, mostly among women and blacks, pushed the nation's unemployment rate back up to 6 percent in October, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said the number of unemployed persons rose by 200,000 from September to 6.2 million. As a result, the jobless rate returned to the level reached in August following a drop to 5.8 percent in September.

Despite the rise, Labor Department analysts said the figures did not provide signs that a recession is taking hold.

"You would have to have a crystal ball to say these are indications to say we're in or about to enter a recession," said Labor economist Norman Bowers. "The figures don't say that."

Bowers said the rising unemployment appeared to stem from the fact that new jobs were not created at a fast enough rate to provide employment opportunities for those who had lost their jobs.

The nation's unemployment rate has fluctuated between 5.6 percent and 6 percent for the past 15 months.

The Labor Department said the increase in unemployment last month resulted from workers losing their jobs, as opposed to people who entered the job market but were unable to find work. Two-thirds of the job losses struck women or blacks.

Total employment, as measured by the government's survey of households, declined by 220,000 during October, to 97.3 million. However, a supplemental survey of business establishments reported a contradictory rise of employment by 300,000 jobs.

The Labor Department, which uses the household survey to determine jobless figures, was at a loss to explain the discrepancy, other than to note that such a result has occurred occasionally in the past.

The jobless rate among adult women rose from 5.5 percent in September to 5.8 percent in October, and the rate for blacks jumped from 10.6 percent to 11.7 percent.

The jobless rate among minority teen-agers went from 31.5 percent in September to 35.7 percent, the highest in nearly a year.

The department provided these other breakdowns on unemployment rates for October:

—Adult men: 4.3 percent in October, up from 4.2 percent in September.

—Teen-agers: 16.6 percent, up from 16.4 percent.

—Whites: 5.2 percent, up from 5.1 percent.

—Full-time workers: 5.5 percent, up from 5.4 percent.

—Part-time workers: 9 percent, up from 8.3 percent.

—Blue-collar workers, 7.3 percent, up from 7.1 percent.

—White-collar workers, 3.5 percent, up from 3.3 percent.

Administration economists were surprised last month, however, when the Labor Department reported that the jobless rate fell from 6 percent to 5.8 percent between August and September. The administration had predicted unemployment would show an increase in September, basing that estimate on an assumption that the economy was headed into a recession.

However, subsequent figures showed that rather than registering a decline, economic activity grew at an annual rate of 2.4 percent during the July-September quarter. That report put predictions of imminent, sharp rises in unemployment on the back burner.

The Federal Reserve Board, the nation's central bank, moved to slow inflation Oct. 6 by increasing interest rates to limit credit and by restricting the money supply. Administration economists say those moves will trigger an economic slowdown and higher unemployment further down the road, perhaps bringing on the long-anticipated recession.

Meanwhile, a national employment commission urged President Carter to push for expanded job programs for the nation's disadvantaged young people, who suffer from chronic unemployment.

"Youth from low-income families and communities, particularly members of minority groups, often face severe, long-term barriers to jobs," Eli Ginzberg, chairman of the National Commission for Employment Policy, said Thursday in a report to the president.

"Even though the youth population will decline in the '80s, without a comprehensive and concentrated attack on the problem, this group will still be in trouble, and this is where federal resources should be targeted," said Ginzberg, a professor at Columbia University.

TVA Officials To Take Hard Look At Disposal Alternatives

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — South Carolina's decision to limit the amount of low-level nuclear wastes it will accept at a disposal site has caused the Tennessee Valley Authority to look harder at alternatives, according to a TVA official.

"It's not completely clear yet how this is going to affect us," John Ingwersen, supervisor of TVA's reactor engineering section in Chattanooga, said. His duties include overseeing disposal of the low-level waste.

He said Chem-Nuclear Systems Inc., which operates the waste burial site at Barnwell, S.C., has assured TVA it can continue to send its trash. But Ingwersen said TVA is uncertain how long the arrangement will last, or whether it can also send contaminated trash from its Sequoyah nuclear plant, not yet licensed to operate.

"Sequoyah is still unclear at this point," he said.

South Carolina Gov. Dick Riley ordered Wednesday a 50 percent reduction in the amount of low-level waste to be buried in that state. The two-year process is to begin immediately.

Victories Piling Up On Energy Program

By DAVID ESPRO

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vote by vote and bill by bill, President Carter is piling up victories in Congress on his energy program.

The House handed the president his latest triumph Thursday, voting 299-107 to create a powerful Energy Mobilization Board designed to speed construction of high-priority energy projects.

Included in the measure is a hotly debated provision permitting certain federal laws to be set aside if they pose an impediment to important projects. The waivers would be subject to approval by the president and both houses of Congress.

The bill was not exactly as Carter requested it — few measures passed either by the House or Senate — but White House energy aide Bert Carp promptly termed House passage a "major advance for our energy program."

The Senate has already approved a similar measure, and a House-Senate committee will be appointed to work out the differences.

The vote came as top House Democrats predicted Congress would enact much of Carter's energy program before it closes shop in mid-December.

"We think by the end of the year we'll have all of the energy legislation out of the way," said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts.

Rubie Smith Honored At ACEI Conference

Rubie E. Smith of Murray was honored at the recent fall conference of the Kentucky Association for Childhood Education International (ACEI) at the University of Louisville.

The executive board, in recognition of her strong leadership as past state president, presented her the Professional Leadership Award. Active in the state ACEI from its beginning, Miss Smith was the second person to hold its highest office.

She is the former head of the Department of Elementary Education at Murray State and was named Distinguished Professor of the Year in 1973 by the Murray State Alumni Association.

Miss Smith was granted the first honorary Doctor of Humanities degree conferred by Murray State University in 1974, the year of her retirement. She served as a faculty member at the university from 1939 until 1974, when she chose early retirement.

Another member of the Murray State community who received a Professional Leadership Award was Donna Jones Stinson, a graduate of MSU. Mrs. Stinson was presented the award in appreciation of her selection as the first student representative appointed to the executive board at the international level. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald E. Jones of Murray.

Special tribute was also paid to the late Miss Lottie Suiter, a past state president of ACEI and a long-term member of the faculty of Murray State University in the Department of Elementary Education and at the University School.

HEALTH

Breathe slowly

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My problem is dizziness, loss of balance. I am a nervous person and my doctor says that I have hyperventilation. Will you explain to me what hyperventilation is and what causes it? How does breathing in a paper bag help this condition?

DEAR READER — The kind of dizziness you are talking about is associated with a sense of faintness. That's different from the dizzy sensation some people describe associated with a false sense of motion. The impending faint is most often associated with inadequate circulation to the brain. Most of us have experienced the more common example of this when one is lying down and jumps up quickly. There may be a momentary swimming and faint sensation.

Hyperventilation causes you to feel faint because it affects your circulation. I can't be certain that you are having hyperventilation as the cause for your faintness. It might be useful for you to have more information about the fainting problem. For that reason, I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-2, Fainting, Loss Of Consciousness Or Syncope. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Most episodes of fainting occur when the person is standing upright and rarely when seated. The problem basically is too much blood in the legs and not enough in the head. This is associated with an excess accumulation of blood in the veins of the legs in most instances. That's why people who are prone to fainting episodes sometimes benefit from support hose or devices that prevent the pooling of blood in the legs.

Hyperventilation means over breathing. Everytime you exhale, you blow out carbon dioxide. That carbon dioxide comes from carbonic acid. If you blow off too much carbon dioxide, your body becomes depleted of its normal amount of carbonic acid. The loss of acid causes your body to become too alkaline. Since it is induced through breathing, we call this respiratory alkalosis.

This can shift the acid-alkaline balance in your body which in turn affects the circulation and causes a wide variety of symptoms. Not only can it cause faintness, but it can cause numbness in the face, particularly around the lips. It can even cause spasms in the muscles of the hand and arm. The severity of the symptoms literally depends on how much over breathing a person is doing.

The idea of breathing into a paper bag literally is to conserve carbon dioxide. If you exhale into a paper bag and then inhale the used air, you're getting some of that carbon dioxide back. The use of the paper bag for this purpose has been questioned by some investigators, but it is still used successfully on a clinical basis in some instances.

One of the best things you can do, if you really know you are over breathing, is to control the breathing itself. Consciously slow your breathing down to eight or less a minute and be careful not to over breathe. Respiration is an involuntary process for most of us but you can't control the rate in depth.

I'd also like to advise against holding your breath. Breath holding after you've been hyperventilating triggers off a lot of powerful reflexes that can even affect how the heart beat works. So, for that reason, if you want to stop hyperventilating, it is better to take shallow breaths and breathe slowly rather than hold your breath.

Mrs. William Jackson Lile Honored Here With Shower

Mrs. William Jackson Lile, the former Jennifer Woodall before her wedding on Oct. 20, was complimented recently with a household shower held at the Community Room of the North Branch of the Peoples Bank.

The hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Ruby Futrell, Mrs. Donna Roberts, Mrs. Carolyn Woods, Mrs. Mavis Schroader, and Mrs. Nancy Schroader.

For the occasion the honoree wore a light burgundy suit with a purple and burgundy blouse and matching accessories. Her mother, Mrs. Larry Woodall, wore a black dress with white outlined flowers and black accessories, while her mother-in-law, Mrs. Elton Lile, was attired in a beige knit suit with gold accessories.

Corsages of silk orchids were presented to the honoree and the mothers.

The gift table was covered with a white cloth decorated with pink crepe paper streamers.

Refreshments of cake, punch, mints, and nuts were served at the table overlaid with a lace cloth and centered with a white wedding bell with pink and green flowers. Matching plates and napkins of the same colors were used to serve the guests.

Games were played prior to the opening of the gifts by the honoree.

Thirty-six persons were present, and many others sent gifts who were unable to attend.

December Wedding Planned At Church

Miss Teri Leisa Morris and Tommy Futrell

Mr. and Mrs. Teddy Morris of Murray announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Teri Leisa, to Tommy Futrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Futrell of Murray.

The bride-elect, a 1977 graduate of Calloway County High School, is attending Murray State University majoring in special education. She is employed parttime at Kroger. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morris of Murray and of Mr. and Mrs. Boone Duke of Benton.

Mr. Futrell, a 1977 graduate of Calloway County High School, attended Murray State University and is now self-employed. He is the grandson of Mrs. Dorothy Orten and the late Owen Futrell, and of Mrs. Eula Garland and the late Toy Garland.

The wedding will be solemnized on Friday, Dec. 28, at 7 p.m. at the West Fork Baptist Church with Kenneth Hoover officiating. A reception will follow the ceremony.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend the wedding and the reception.

A Mother Too Many

DEAR ABBY: After my parents' divorce, mother left town, and at the age of 21 I was adopted by my mother's sister and her husband, who were in truth my aunt and uncle. They were the only parents I have ever known, but I always knew that I had been adopted.

I didn't hear from my "real" mother until shortly before my marriage, when she moved back to the city where I lived.

Since my "real" mother had reunited with her family, she was invited to my wedding. When it came time to introduce everybody, to save a lot of explanations, I introduced her as my mother and my adoptive mother as my aunt because, technically, that's what they both were to me, right?

My adoptive mother was so hurt that she hasn't spoken to me since.

I realize that the damage is done and there's nothing I can do about it now, but how should I have handled this whole mess?

GUILTY

DEAR GUILTY: You should have introduced your adoptive mother as your mother because (a) legally she IS your mother and (b) she earned that name when she adopted you!

And you should have introduced your "real" mother as your aunt or your mother's sister, because (a) legally that is what she is and (b) when she gave you up for adoption, she also gave up her right to be called your mother.

DEAR ABBY: My mother and mother-in-law were here today singing the same song: "Shame on you. How can you raise one child alone? Tammy should have a little brother or sister. You'll be sorry."

Abby, my husband and I have been married for 11 years. We have one planned child—a beautiful, healthy, well-adjusted daughter, now 4. I am 34 and my husband is 36 and we don't want any more children, but his mother and mine are constantly on our backs trying to make us feel guilty for raising an only child. They say we are being unfair to Tammy.

How can we get them off our backs once and for all? Or do you think we are being unfair to Tammy?

HASSLED IN VA.

DEAR HASSLED: You can get them off your backs by stiffening your spines and reminding them (respectfully) that you are adults now and capable of making your own decisions. The size of your family is strictly your own business, and there is nothing "unfair" about raising one child.

DEAR ABBY: How do you feel about telling a woman that she has a run in her stocking or her slip is showing? Or telling a man his zipper is open or he has a button missing? Is it proper to point out things like that? I have mixed feelings about it. Thanks.

MIXED FEELINGS

DEAR MIXED: To tell a woman that her slip is showing, or a man that his zipper needs zipping, is a kindness since they are able to do something about it. But pointing out a missing button or a run in one's stocking is another matter. Nothing can be done about it; perhaps the person was already aware of it and hoped it wouldn't be noticed.

Lisa Watson Named To Dean's List At Centre College

DANVILLE, Ky. — Lisa Watson has been named to the fall term dean's list at Centre College of Kentucky. Miss Watson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Watson of 814 Olive St., Murray.

Miss Watson is a 1978 graduate of Murray High School. She was also named to Centre's 1979 spring term dean's list.

The fall term dean's list at Centre is based on the student's academic work of the previous spring and summer terms. The dean's list recognizes those students who academically rank in the top 15 per cent of the student body divided equally among the four classes.

Centre College of Kentucky is a four-year college of the liberal arts and sciences located in the Bluegrass region near Lexington. About 60 per cent of its graduates go on to graduate or professional studies, many in law or medicine. Others immediately enter careers in management, social service, research, teaching, and other fields. Chartered in 1819, Centre is in its 160th year of operation.

Nunn Or Brown? A Tough Choice

With less than a week remaining before Kentucky voters go to the polls to select a governor for the next four years, supporters of both camps are beating the bushes in an attempt to drum up additional ballots for their favorite — either Republican Louie B. Nunn or Democrat John Y. Brown.

That is a predictable occurrence as is the editorial endorsement of one or the other by newspapers across the state during the final days leading up to the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

We have assessed the positions and background of both Brown and Nunn and have determined that we cannot offer a wholehearted endorsement of either candidate. We lean toward Brown as a new image for Kentucky but have some fears of the unknown. We'll list some of the advantages and disadvantages, as we perceive them, about each candidate.

Nunn served as governor of Kentucky from 1967-71 and his record shows the Glasgow native was decisive, sometimes hard-nosed and managed the considerable power of the office imposingly. In some quarters his handling of the gubernatorial prerogative has been described as ruthless.

Brown, on the other hand, has had no personal political experience and is relying on his reputation as a successful businessman to propel him into the governor's chair in Frankfort. The feather in Brown's cap is the stunning success of Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp.

Brown has been described variously by former business associates as a genius, frustrating, single-minded, quick on his feet, bullheaded and brilliant.

As governor, Nunn:

- Increased state support for education 53 percent, including pay raises for teachers. Also during his term, Northern Kentucky State College was established, four community colleges built and the University of Louisville was brought into the state system.

- Oversew record toll-road and highway building programs.

- Raised the state sales tax from three percent to five percent and auto license fees from $5 to $12.50 per year.

- Closed Kentucky Village and Frankfort State Hospital, dilapidated institutions for juvenile delinquents and the retarded and built a "model" training center for the retarded at Somerset.

- Fired several thousand merit system employees who were Democrats. Some sued and the out-of-court settlement cost taxpayers $2 million.

As a businessman, Brown:

- Helped built Kentucky Fried Chicken into the largest fast-food company in the world at the time it was merged with Heublein Inc. in 1971.

- Bought troubled Lum's for $4 million and six months later sold a piece of it for a reported $6 million. Sold his remaining interest last year for a reported $3.5 million.

- Bounced in and out of basketball for nearly a decade, owning pieces of three teams. Sold his interest in the Boston Celtics this year.

- Helped the national Democratic Party raise a reported $19 million with telethons in 1972 and 1973.

We, along with several thousand other Kentuckians, have not yet made up our minds and likely won't, for sure, until we step into the voting booth Tuesday morning.

On the one hand we could choose a proven politician, one whose past performance in Frankfort speaks for itself. On the other hand, we can take a chance on a successful businessman whose sometimes arrogant attitude leaves us cold but who, as an entrepreneur, has adequately proven his instincts.

Each voter must make up his or her own mind. The decision, as we see it, will not be easy. The only easy thing about this election is the knowledge that whatever decision the voters of Kentucky come to, we all must live with it for the next four years.

HEARTLINE

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I saw mention in your column recently of "mother's benefits" under Social Security. Can you tell me what mother's benefits are? Does this mean that my mother can draw benefits from my Social Security account? I am 58 and my mother is 76. I have never been married. — O.Q.

If a man retires, becomes disabled or dies, and the mother (his wife) has children in her care under age 18 and she is not yet old enough to draw wife's benefits (age 62) or widow's benefits (age 60), or 50 if she is disabled), then the mother would be eligible to draw mother's benefits from her husband's account until the youngest child turns age 18.

Mother's benefits may also be paid if a child, regardless of actual age, is under a disability which began before the child reached age 22 and is in his or her mother's care. Mother's benefits do not provide benefits to the worker's mother.

However, if a worker dies, under some circumstances, benefits can be paid to dependent parents of the worker from his or her Social Security account. You should inquire about this benefit at your local Social Security office as there are a number of circumstances which would have bearing on whether the parent can qualify for the benefit.

HEARTLINE: I have been told that a railroad employee who is age 60 and has 30 years of service and who could also qualify for a disability annuity would receive more if he retires on the basis of age and service rather than on disability. Is this true? — K.R.

At the present time, an employee who is at least age 60 with 30 or more years of railroad service would generally receive a greater annuity if he retired on the basis of age and service rather than on disability.

The difference in benefits relates to the fact that for purposes of calculating an age annuity, such an employee is deemed to be age 65 upon retirement whereas the employee's actual age would be used for disability annuity calculations. As a result, the average monthly compensation on which the

Letter To The Editor

Teacher Groups Favor PN

Dear Editor:

In an editorial published by The Murray Ledger and Times on Wednesday, October 17, statements were made that questioned the idea of professional negotiations for teachers and in particular the professional negotiations bill that is being sought by teachers in the 1980 General Assembly. This letter will present another view of professional negotiations.

Teachers are aware that to those outside the teaching profession the terms collective bargaining, which has long been associated with unions, and professional negotiations do appear to be synonymous; but to teachers there is a definite distinction between the terms. Quibbling over semantic terms could be an endless argument which obscures the true issue — the need for negotiations. Professional negotiations is a term that was selected because it more aptly describes the form and substance of our desired interactions with the school boards. We as professionals insist on the right to pursue our goals in a professional manner.

There's nothing frightening, unnatural or un-American about the process of negotiations. When issues exist within the system that need solutions, it seems only logical that teachers have a voice in the decisions which affect them and the students they teach. Teacher morale and effectiveness are increased where formal procedures for the exchange of ideas are available. Teachers have never wanted the decision-making powers alone but have only sought to utilize our professional skills and experiences in the decision-making processes which affect the most precious commodity any community has to offer — its children.

Many people who are not familiar with the proposed bill are given the distinct impression that every school board in this state will be mandated to start negotiations as soon as the bill is passed. This is not the case. Only in those school systems where the majority of teachers wish to negotiate a contract will the board be required to comply. The bill does not make it mandatory that all boards negotiate. Negotiations are designed to lead to agreement, not strikes. The independent nature of negotiations suggests that an impasse can be solved in several ways — the least attractive to teachers being the strike itself. The teachers have agreed to accept a no-strike provision in the proposed law.

Teachers are keenly aware that funds for education are restricted because of the tax base. Teacher negotiations can affect neither the money given to schools by the state, which is determined by the average daily attendance, nor the amount of local taxes. The only influence that negotiations might possibly exert would be in determining how the money would be spent.

Teachers are citizens and taxpayers and have the same rights and responsibilities that other citizens and taxpayers have. Therefore, teachers are equally concerned about items which will raise their taxes or cost more money, but most of the teacher concerns in regard to professional negotiations are in areas that are not money items.

In an independent study made by the Rand Corporation, it was discovered that non-compensation items, such as guaranteed preparation periods, a limit on non-teaching duties, class size maximums, and detailed evaluation procedure are the areas that have been the primary focus in teacher negotiations. These are all working conditions, rather than more money in the pocket or control over educational policies. The teachers' working conditions are indeed the students' learning conditions.

And what does the public get for its money as far as education is concerned? Walter Mondale answered it in a recent speech when he said, "When I chaired the Senate Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity, the Committee found that every single dollar the United States spends on education returns $6 to the Gross National Product, every $4 the country spends to get students to complete high school returns $7 to federal, state, and local governments. There's no better investment in the nation than education."

The loss of local control is contrary to the basic concept of professional negotiations, where local teachers meet with the local school boards to discuss local issues. The issues pertinent to Murray City or Calloway County are of little or no concern to any other school district in this state. Similarly, no outside factors or factions, including KEA and NEA, need influence local negotiations.

The teachers in the Murray City and Calloway County School Districts are privileged to work with progressive school boards who seem to realize the need for teacher input. However, under the present arrangement in this state, teachers are not always presented with such an opportunity. If we are to prepare our students to function in a complex society, it is necessary to involve the experience and skill of the teacher, the direction of the school board, and the support of parents. The members of our associations sincerely believe that Professional Negotiations would make this joint effort possible.

Yours truly,

Christ's Authority In The New Community

Ephesians 1:11-23

Through their union with Christ-believers have become God's heritage. Christ and they have a glorious future. Their realization that they are "heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ" should call forth their greatest praises of Him Who made it possible. The salvation which God the Father planned and Christ the Son provided the Holy Spirit persuades individuals to receive through faith in Christ. Those who believe on Christ are sealed in Him by the Holy Spirit, thereby guaranteeing their safe delivery to heaven.

Paul's great prayer, recorded in verses 15-23, was a request for knowledge, for a fuller knowledge of those divine blessings mentioned in the previous verses. In this remarkable prayer are three noteworthy elements:

I. Thanksgiving. 1:15-16

Paul assured the Ephesians that he spent considerable time in praying for them. After thanking God for what they were and the progress which they had made in the Christian life, he commended them for their faith in Christ as manifested through their genuine love and good works.

II. Intercession. 1:17-19

Not only did Paul thank God for what they were, but he prayed for what he wanted them to become. He did not ask God to give unto those for whom he was interceding easier lives and be spared of persecution, but he requested Him to give unto them spiritual discernment and wisdom, in order that they might be able to understand more clearly three things:

1. The hope of God's calling. 1:18b
This calling looked to the time when God summoned sinners to salvation in and by Christ, and it became effectual when they believed on Christ and He saved them.

2. The glory of God's inheritance. 1:18c

Paul prayed that they might know the riches God possessed in them, for whom He had paid a tremendous price — the precious blood of Christ, so they are precious to the Father.

3. The greatness of God's power. 1:19
Paul asked God to let the Ephesians know the greatness of His power which He was prepared to exert toward them, if only they were willing to receive and use it.

III. Adoration 1:20-23

Inasmuch as God has exercised His mighty power in raising Christ from the dead, exalting Him to the place of honor and authority, and in giving Him supremacy over all things, and has made this same divine power available to His children, it certainly behooves all of them to adore Him and bring to Him all the honor and glory possible. It is not only our duty to acknowledge Christ's Lordship over our personalities, our possessions, and our plans, but it is also our privilege and obligation to so yield ourselves to our Lord that we may be channels through which His great power can work effectively for the benefit of others. Christ deserves all of the adoration, praise and devotion that loving hearts can present to Him.

The News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vote by vote and bill by bill, President Carter is piling up victories in Congress on his energy program. The House handed the president his latest triumph Thursday, voting 299-107 to create a powerful Energy Mobilization Board designed to speed construction of high-priority energy projects.

Included in the measure is a hotly debated provision permitting certain federal laws to be set aside if they pose an impediment to important projects. The waivers would be subject to approval by the president and both houses of Congress.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's plan for $1.5 billion in loan guarantees to help Chrysler Corp. appears to be headed for swift action by a House panel, but faces doubts and delays in the Senate. A spokesman for the House Banking Committee said its subcommittee on economic stabilization hopes to question Treasury Secretary G. William Miller within a few days and act on the proposal next week. Approval by the full banking committee is expected to follow quickly, sending the measure to the floor, where both supporters and opponents have predicted it will pass.

NATIONAL
ANDYTOWN, Fla. (AP) — For 32 years, Andytown was a tiny but well-loved outpost near Alligator Alley where truckers, hunters and fishermen could get a fillup, a burger, a beer or a pint of something stronger to take into the Everglades.

But Wednesday night after a tearful farewell party, its ramshackle eatery, filling station and bait and tackle shop shut down forever.

Soon Andytown, 20 miles west of Fort Lauderdale, will be bulldozed to make way for an interchange for Interstate 75.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It used to be you could tell an aerospace engineer by the pink slip peeking out from behind the half-dozen pens in his shirt pocket. Now engineers are so scarce that defense firms are paying bounties to steal them from each other.

A simultaneous jump in defense and airliner business has Texas Instruments running ads in Los Angeles on the virtues of Dallas, Northrop offering $1,000 in cash for new workers and Boeing hiring overseas for the first time in a decade. The boom-or-bust aerospace business is booming again.

INTERNATIONAL
LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) —

Bolivia's new military strongman, Col. Alberto Natusch, declared a state of siege, dissolved congress and had himself named president only hours after leading a bloody coup and assuring his countrymen political freedom.

The state of siege, which suspends all constitutional guarantees, was announced late Thursday and came amid rumors that a counter-coup would be attempted. Students, unions and major political parties oppose Natusch, denouncing him as a military dictator.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Authorities identified the dead as Jimmy Holder, 24, Tommy Kinzer Jr., 28, and Palm Pitts, 31, all of Fayetteville; and Andrea Johnson, 27, of Valley Ridge. The fifth victim, a woman, was not immediately identified, pending notification of relatives.

Earlier, a spokeswoman for the Federal Aviation Administration in Atlanta said a flight plan filed in Jackson, Miss., listed four persons aboard. The Mitsubishi MU2 registered to C.F.W. Corp. of Fayetteville, Tenn., was on a 35-minute flight from Chattanooga to Nashville, the flight plan said.

Fred A. Quinn, 22, said he was on his porch working on a piece of furniture when he saw the plane's lights cut through the fog near the airport.

"I seen it coming, I heard a little noise and that was when it exploded," he said. "It made a big noise. It was worse than a bomb."

Quinn said he saw a bright flash of orange light before the plane plowed down a hillside and skidded into Lester Lake, east of the airport.

Nancy Foster, 33, said she was watching television when she heard two explosions.

"One heavy one and then a second about four or five seconds later," she said. "Me and my two daughters came to the front door and the hillside was blazing with four patches of fire. Man, it missed my house by about 300 yards. It was a mess."

HERE'S HEALTH

By DR. BRYAN THACKER

Chiropractic recognizes that the difference between radiant good health and debilitating, painful disability is dependent on the nerves...specifically those nerves that run up and down through the hollow vertebrae that make up the spinal column.

Many, if not most, of human aches and pains signal trouble caused by inefficient nerve function. This results when the spinal segments become misaligned, pinching the enclosed nerves and preventing the proper regulation of the muscles and vital organs they serve.

A chiropractic examination can determine the condition of your spine and provide needed corrective adjustments. Phone us.

A Murray Triumph Will Clinch OVC Title

By TONY WILSON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

MIKE GOTTFRIED

Win will achieve one of long-term goals

What could possibly top the combination of:

- ✓ a victory over the top-ranked team in Division I-AA;
- ✓ a performance in full view of a near-capacity homecoming crowd;
- ✓ and an on-the-field celebration watched by a regional television audience?

Easy. Beating Austin Peay Saturday. "To me, this one is more important than the Eastern game," says Murray State coach Mike Gottfried. "If we win Saturday, we will have achieved one of our long-term goals we set when we came here."

A triumph over the Governors in the 1:30 p.m. contest at Roy Stewart Stadium will provide the Racers with at least a share of the Ohio Valley Conference championship and snap a 28-year league title drought.

Should Murray win, it will enter the Nov. 17 season-ending game at Western Kentucky assured of at least the title of co-champion. But that game is two weeks away and Gottfried says it is the farthest thing from his mind.

"I haven't thought about last week's game or the Western game at all," he says. "I know, and this team knows, that Austin Peay is capable of beating anyone. So that's the only thing we've been thinking about."

The Govs won three of six OVC games last season and, with the nucleus of their offense returning, figured to challenge for at least an upper-division spot. But three straight league defeats quickly dashed that notion.

The Governors have since recovered to capture three straight triumphs, the latest a 31-14 bombing of Middle Tennessee last week. They currently stand 5-3.

Austin Peay contributed to Murray's 4-7 record last season with a 23-17 victory, and Craig Wood, who scored on runs of two, 12 and 30 yards against the Racers, is back.

He has carried 72 times for 384 yards this season but is only one of the three top Austin Peay backs. Junior Cosmo Cochran has gained 366 yards on 76 carries, while Donald Brown, another sophomore, has 185 yards in 39 carries.

Three starters of the Governor defensive secondary which led the nation in pass defense last season — Lynn Hailstock, Joe Grimsley and Dexter Freeman are back. But Murray's pass defense unit has given up 127 yards a game, compared to Austin Peay's 131.

With Danny Lee Johnson now at full strength, the Racers have a potent trio of tailbacks in Johnson, Nick Nance and Lindsey Hudspeth. The three have accounted for 1,176 of the Racers' 1,675 yards rushing.

Too, Hudspeth leads the league in scoring with nine touchdowns.

Austin Peay's Steve Puthoff has played in just four games for the Governors, but he still leads the team in pass receptions with 19. His 4.8 catches-a-game average heads the conference.

Murray's Anthony Robbins, aided by a 40-yard catch last week against Eastern, ranks fifth in the league with 2.5 catches a game.

"We know what Austin Peay can do to a passing team," said Gottfried. "But that doesn't mean we're going to be conservative. We'll throw passes. But not desperate ones."

Throwing passes for Austin Peay will be Steve Brewer, whose status for Saturday's game was questionable most of the week. But he has apparently recovered from a hip pointer and is listed as the probable starter at quarterback.

Racer defensive guard Mike Watson, who injured a knee in the second quarter against Eastern Kentucky, will be replaced in the lineup by freshman Larry Maze.

Both reserved bleacher and general admission tickets will go on sale at the stadium at noon, said Sports Information Director Doug Vance.

For Some, Playoffs

But For Others, Season-Ending Games On Tap

By the Associated Press

Although some schools will be putting the finishing touches on the regular season, attention tonight turns to those schools competing in the Kentucky high school football playoffs.

First round playoff games are scheduled in Jefferson County AAAA and State AAAA, with a handful of sub-district playoffs being contested in the Class AAA, AA and A ranks.

Four matchups of ranked teams are on tap in AAAA playoffs, with two other season-ending showdowns also pairing rated outfits.

In Jefferson County AAAA, No. 1 Louisville Trinity, which finished its season 10-0, opens its bid for the AAAA title when the Shamrocks meet Louisville DeSales on Saturday. Owensboro, 10-0, and ranked first in State AAAA, faces a rugged opening-round test on Friday when the Red Devils face oncebeaten Bowling Green, the third-ranked State AAAA club.

The other top-rated team in playoff action this weekend is Paintsville of Class A, 8-1, which takes on No. 5 Elkhorn City, 9-4.

No. 1 Mayfield of Class AA, 10-1, will decide if it will earn a chance for a third consecutive state title when it visits No. 5 Fort Campbell, 7-2. Mayfield would clinch a playoff spot with a win, but a Fort Campbell victory would create a three-way tie for the district title and would apparently give Fort Campbell the playoff berth through use of a tiebreaker system.

In a key Class AAA game, No. 2 Barren County, 10-0, visits No. 3 Franklin-Simpson, 9-1, with the winner earning a spot in the playoffs.

Belfry, 9-0 and ranked first in Class AAA, is idle this week before swinging into playoff action next Friday against Leslie County.

Here is a breakdown of the weekend playoff schedule:

—Jefferson County AAAA: On Friday, No. 2 Iroquois, 10-0, meets No. 4 Bishop David, 7-3 and No. 3 Butler, 10-0, plays defending Class AAAA champion St. Xavier, 7-3. In Saturday games, Trinity meets DeSales, 7-3, and No. 5

Ballard, 7-3, plays Durrett, 6-4.

—State AAAA: Owensboro is at Bowling Green, No. 2 Franklin County, 11-0, is at No. 5 Bullitt Central, 10-1, Clark County, 5-5, is at Lexington Henry Clay, 6-4, and Boyd County, 4-6, is at Boone County, 8-3. No. 4 Paducah Tilghman, runnerup to Bowling Green in district play, finished its season 8-1.

—Class AAA: LaRue County, 8-2, is at Meade County, 6-4, Estill County, 8-2, is at No. 5 Lincoln County, 9-1, and Fort Thomas Highlands, 7-4, is at Conner, 5-5. In a regular season confrontation, No. 4 Scott County, 8-2, entertains Harrison County.

—Class AA: Green County, 5-5, is at Glasgow, 7-3, and Rowan County, 6-3, is at Fleming County, 10-1. No. 2 Corbin, 10-0, and No. 3 Pikeville, 10-1, are idle, and No. 4 Heath, 7-2, finishes its season at Ballard Memorial. Heath had the misfortune of playing in the same district with Mayfield and Fort Campbell.

—Class A: Paintsville is at Elkhorn City and Williamsburg, 10-1, is at No. 3 Harlan, 11-0. In regular season games, No. 2 Richmond Madison, 7-2, hosts Harrodsburg and No. 4 Bellevue, 8-2, is at Nicholas County.

Oriole Stockholders Approve Birds' Sale

By the Associated Press
BALTIMORE — The sale of the American League champion Baltimore Orioles to Washington attorney Edward Bennett Williams was approved by the club's stockholders

Former Oriole Board Chairman Jerald C. Hoffberger, whose family had controlling interest in the team, signed an agreement with Williams on Aug. 2. Last week the AL owners voted unanimously to approve the sale.

Bellard Must Face Both Squads

By the Associated Press
EMORY BELLARD, Mississippi State football coach, says, "I would like to see a game where Alabama's offense played Alabama's defense."

Former Oriole Board Chairman Jerald C. Hoffberger, whose family had controlling interest in the team, signed an agreement with Williams on Aug. 2. Last week the AL owners voted unanimously to approve the sale.

Instead, Bellard will have to contend with both Alabama's offensive and defensive units Saturday when he sends his Maroons against the nation's top-ranked team at Tuscaloosa.

The Crimson Tide has been virtually unbeatable at home under Bryant, winning 47 in a row in friendly Tuscaloosa and 62 of its 63 games there under the venerable coach. Adding to Bellard's woes, Alabama has beaten Mississippi State 21 consecutive times, has the nation's longest current winning streak (16, including seven this year) and has won 20 straight Southeastern Conference games, equalling the league record.

Despite Alabama's apparent superiority, Bryant is expressing concern about the Bulldogs, who are 2-0 in the SEC but have lost four nonleague games.

"They are big and strong and when they are emotionally ready, they can play with any team in the nation," said Bryant. "They have a history of playing well one week and being off the next. I'm sure this will be their week to play great."

In other games Saturday involving members of The Associated Press Top 10, second-ranked Nebraska visits Missouri, No. 3 Southern California entertains Arizona, fourth-ranked Houston is at Texas Christian, fifth-ranked Ohio State is at Illinois, No. 6 Florida State plays at Cincinnati, seventh-ranked Oklahoma is at Oklahoma State, eighth-ranked Texas is home against Texas Tech, No. 9 Arkansas visits Rice and 10th-ranked Michigan entertains Wisconsin.

In the Second 10, No. 11 Brigham Young is at Colorado State, 12th-rated Pitt is home against Syracuse, 13th-ranked Notre Dame entertains Navy, No. 14 Wake Forest is at Clemson, 15th-ranked Purdue visits Iowa, 16th-rated Washington is at California, No. 17 Tennessee is home against Rutgers, 18th-rated North Carolina plays at Maryland, No. 19 Penn State hosts Miami of Florida and 20th-rated Auburn faces Florida at home.

The Notre Dame-Navy game will continue the nation's longest-running inter-sectional rivalry. It will be the 53rd meeting between the Fighting Irish and the Middles, with Navy seeking its first victory since 1963, when Roger Staubach was the team's quarterback.

The Middles, unranked despite a 6-1 record, are hurting physically, and as many as seven starters, including tailbacks Steve Callahan and Mike Sherlock, the team's top two rushers, are likely to miss Saturday's game.

Calloway County's Jeff Garrison (32) exulted after scoring a touchdown against Henry County, Tenn., in a freshman football game last night at Roy Stewart Stadium. No. 55 is Marty Hayes, and signalling the touchdown is George Cheponis. The Lakers finished their season unbeaten. (Story on page 8)

Jordan says there's more pressure on her because she's scheduled for just one match. She and her British opponent are both 19, right-handed and prefer serve-and-volley games. Hobbs, ranked No. 3 in England and 59th in the world, lost the only other time they've met. But that was three years ago.

"Neither of us will be able to serve and volley (because of the clay surface)," said Jordan.

Hall Of Fame Pace

Cornell To Be One Of 13 Inducted At SIU

He's 40 years old now and plays racquetball to stay in shape. But in the early 1960s, Bill Cornell was one of the fastest collegians in spikes.

As a sophomore in 1962, he ran a 4:00.5 mile and finished second in the NCAA nationals. Now, 17 years later, he still owns or shares seven records in the Southern Illinois University record books.

So it should shock no one that Cornell will be inducted into the SIU Athletic Hall of Fame Feb. 1 in Carbondale. Pouring over his accomplishments, the real surprise should be why he wasn't inducted long ago.

There's a simple reason. SIU didn't inaugurate its Hall of Fame until 1977, and when Saluki track coach Lew Hartzog has himself coached 53 All-Americans, the selection process can become difficult.

Now Cornell is the Murray State track and cross country coach, a position he has held for the past 11 years. But his memories as a world-class runner are vivid.

And his career as a world-class runner is inconsistent in mild terms, zany in harsh ones. In 1956, Cornell held the world's fastest time in the mile run for a 17-year-old. So what did the Great Britian native do to top that feat?

Not much. He didn't run competitively for almost three years. And had it not been for a story in a track magazine, Hartzog might never have discovered Cornell.

"I can't say that I ever really enjoyed running, not like a lot of people

Tony Wilson

Ledger & Times
Sports Editor

do," says Cornell. "I appreciated what it took to become a good athlete, but I wasn't really having a good time reaching that level."

Hartzog contacted Cornell, offered him a scholarship, and the highlights are etched in the SIU track brochure's fine print of records that still stand:

Outdoor

✓ Mile run, Bill Cornell, 4:00.5, 1962.

✓ 1500 meters, Bill Cornell, 3:42.7, 1962.

✓ 2-mile relay, 7:22.3 (Bill Cornell, John Saunders, Jim Dupree, Brian Turner), 1962.

✓ Distance medley relay (Bill Cornell, John Saunders, Jim Dupree, Brian Turner), 1962.

✓ Sprint medley relay, 3:18.7 (Bill Cornell, Ed Houston, Al Pulliam, Jim Stewart), 1963.

Indoor

✓ 2-mile relay, 7:33.5 (Bill Cornell, Jim Peters, Brian Turner, Jim Dupree), 1963.

✓ 1,000 yards, 2:09.6, Bill Cornell, 1964.

Cornell says his biggest regret is not going after the sub-four minute mile after coming so close in 1962. "Coach Hartzog had some other strong runners in the mile, so he moved me to the middle distances."

An ulcer caused Cornell far more discomfort than the footsteps of opposing runners. Sometimes he would be bent over in pain, his stomach knotted, before a big race.

"I can honestly say that had Bill not had the ulcer problem, he could have challenged for a world record in the mile," Hartzog, who still coaches track at SIU, says. "He is as intense a competitor as I've ever seen."

"I've always been a worrier," says Cornell. "Even now just coaching, I worry. But I think I've gotten rid of the ulcer."

Cornell smoked cigarettes as a youth and even continued the practice throughout his college career. "The first thing I did when I got off the plane from England was light one up," he says.

Don't think that Hartzog didn't try to get him to stop. He tried, but Cornell kept on smoking. "I think the cigarettes enabled me to keep running, because it helped my nerves."

Four different runners prevented Cornell from winning a national title while at SIU. His 4:00.5 time was second only to Dyrol Burleson in 1962. In 1963, he was second in the half-mile with a 1:48.4 clocking. In the indoor season a few months earlier, he had placed third in the 1,000-yard run.

But on Feb. 1, he and 12 other former SIU athletes will be second to no one.

"They'll want me to give a speech, and I'm terrible at that," says Cornell. "I know what I want to say, but I usually sort of stutter my way down the podium."

Those listening, though, won't really have to hear Cornell's acceptance speech to understand. The fine print in a Saluki track brochure tells it all.

Bill Cornell plays racquetball to stay in shape now, but in the early 1960s, a younger Cornell (left) nearly broke the four-minute mile barrier.

Tent Pitched For Free Agents

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK — Baseball's fourth annual garage sale — the free agent draft — pitched its tent today, with price tags on some 44 major league players who hope to become instant millionaires.

If one-fourth of them don't, it will be an upset. The first year of player freedom in 1976 saw 14 sign for $1 million and more while 10 millionaires have emerged from each of the last two grab bags.

"I am glad I am not involved," said Dave McNally, former all-star pitcher of the Baltimore Orioles, now retired and prospering in the automobile business in Billings, Mont. "Before the big decision, the cards were stacked heavily in favor of the owners. Now they are stacked in favor of the players."

"One of the reasons I quit — other than my bad arm — was that I don't think I could have stood shuttling from one team to another. It's bad for everybody."

Dave McNally and another pitcher, Andy Messersmith, lately of the Los Angeles Dodgers, were principals in the historic arbitration ruling by Peter Seitz that a ball club could not bind a player to his contract for life as specified by the reserve clause.

Seitz's ruling on Dec. 23, 1975 had a cyclonic effect on the lords of the game.

If allowed to prevail, warned Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, "it would be a disaster for most of the players, the clubs and, most of all, the fans."

"Financially suicidal," said Lee MacPhail, president of the American League.

Both proved to be panicky Chicken Littles. The sky didn't fall, after all — not even when Pete Rose and Dave Parker signed for almost $1 million a year. The game drew 43 million people the past season and is healthier than ever in its century of existence.

Seitz and McNally can look back and view the landmark decision with detached objectivity. Messersmith, picked up by Atlanta for $1 million, gravitated to the Yankees, returned to the Dodgers and this year got his walking papers.

"The present salaries appear out of proportion," said McNally, a 20-game winner with the Orioles. "The owners brought their problems on themselves — they were obstinate and refused to budge. Now that the players have the upper hand, they don't want to give up their gains."

Two minutes after his decision, Seitz was fired by the owners. "I'd never been dismissed like that before," he said. "I was fuming."

In effect, he held that once a contract is terminated, the player has the right to offer his services to another club. Under the reserve clause, a club could hold — and even cover up — a player as long as he stayed in the game.

Seitz insists now he doesn't know how an equitable agreement can be reached.

"It's a puzzle," he said, "protecting a player's rights on the one hand and the owners' investment on the other while being fair to the fans. The answer probably lies in good heads and collective bargaining."

Smith, Fibak Advance; Billy Jean King Romps

By the Associated Press
COLOGNE, West Germany — Stan Smith advanced in the $75,000 Cologne Grand Prix tournament by beating Trey Walkte 2-6, 6-1, 6-3.

In other action, Poland's Wojtek Fibak swept past West German Peter Elter 6-3, 6-3; Bruce Manson defeated Tom Gorman 7-6, 3-6, 6-1 and Eliot Teltscher overpowered Pavel Slozil of Czechoslovakia 6-2, 6-1.

PARIS — Brian Gottfried beat France's Patrice Dominguez 6-3, 6-2 to advance to the quarterfinals of the Paris Open.

In other matches, Pascal Portes of France beat countryman Jean-Baptiste Chanfreau 6-2, 6-3; Jean-Francois Caujolle eliminated Keith Richardson 6-2, 4-6, 7-5 and Italy's Corrado Barazzutti rallied to oust Finland's Leo Palin 3-6, 6-2, 7-5.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Billie Jean King easily beat Hana Strachonova of Czechoslovakia 6-2, 6-1 in the second round of the $210,000 Stockholm Open.

In other action, Pam Teeguarden beat Ilana Kloss of South Africa 7-6, 6-3; Renee Blount overcame Dana Gilbert 6-7, 6-2, 6-3; Laura Dupont whipped Tanya Harford of South Africa 6-1, 6-1; Anne Smith beat Czech Yvona Brzakova 6-4, 6-2; Betsy Nagelsen took out Daniela Porzio of Italy 6-4, 6-2 and Wendy Turnbull of Australia defeated Stacy Margolin 6-4, 6-2.

TOKYO — Bjorn Borg of Sweden eliminated Bob Lutz 6-3, 6-3 while John Sadri upset India's Vijay Amritraj.

Holzman Praises Cartwright After Celtic Victory

By the Associated Press
SALT LAKE CITY — New York Knicks Coach Red Holzman had nothing but praise for 7-foot Bill Cartwright after the rookie from the University of San Francisco scored 31 points in a 134-118 National Basketball Association victory over the Utah Jazz Thursday night.

NBA ROUNDUP

In the only other NBA game, Cleveland beat Detroit 127-125. "Cartwright is going to be one helluva player," Holzman said. "He needs some time to develop but he's learning real quickly. We always go to Cartwright, that's part of our game plan against anyone." Cartwright wasn't the only hero in the Knicks' comeback triumph over the Jazz, which has won only two of its 10 outings in its first year in Utah.

Toby Knight equalled Cartwright's point production, getting 25 of his 31 in the first half while Utah was running up a 69-61 lead.

Ray Williams and Michael Richardson were the key figures in the New York comeback, scoring 37 points between them in the final two quarters. Their outside shooting, most of which came while Knight was on the bench with four personal fouls, catapulted the Knicks from a 10-point deficit, 71-61, to an easy triumph.

Williams wound up with 23 points for the night and Richardson finished with 21. Ron Boone, playing his first home game for Utah since coming to the Jazz with the Los Angeles Lakers, scored 22 points for the losers, as did Adrian Dantley.

Boone was a crowd favorite when he played for the Utah Stars of the defunct American Basketball Association from 1970 to 1975, and the crowd

Thursday night of 8,326 was the largest of the season.

Duck Williams added 20 and Bernard King 19 for Utah.

Utah Coach Tom Nissalke attributed his team's poor second-half performance partially to the fact that he has little depth on the guard line.

Richardson, the Knicks' second-year guard from Montana, had a perfect shooting night, pumping in 9-of-9 shots from the field and was 2-for-2 from the foul line.

Knight was nearly as accurate, hitting 14 of his 16 attempts from the field as New York shot 65 percent from the field in running its record to 6-5.

Piston error with seven seconds to go to set up the winning shot by Smith.

The Pistons had led by as much as 12 points in the first half before Cleveland rallied. Smith tied the game at 125 with seven seconds left. Detroit called time out to set up a play at midcourt, but gave up the ball when forward Terry Tyler was unable to pass it inbounds in the prescribed five seconds.

Cleveland then took over and Smith responded with his winning shot to climax a thrill-packed final three minutes, in which the lead changed hands six times and was tied on five other occasions.

Racers Should Beat Austin Peay, While Eastern, Western To Win

By TONY WILSON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

It's tough staying on top, particularly with everyone knowing that to knock you off means a feather in the season's hat. But Austin Peay will have a problem with Murray State: the Racers have been plucking feathers all season.

OVC PICKS

The picker called last week's upset of Eastern but tumbled to 2-2 for the week and 21-5 on the season, .808.

A new day:
Murray 24, Austin Peay 14
— The opportunity to clinch

the Ohio Valley Conference title will be motivation enough for the Racers to subdue an Austin Peay team that is better than 1-3.

It's hard to imagine the defense improving on last week's performance, but a repeat should pack plenty of punch.

Eastern Ky. 33, Tenn. Tech 7

— Eastern will be listening for the result of the Murray game almost as intensely as it will drib Tech, which has been a patsy for most league schools this season.

The Colonels are still the No. 5-ranked team nationally in Division I-AA and will likely play like it. A Murray loss would put Eastern right back in the conference race.

Cavaliers 127, Pistons 125 — A 25-foot jumper by Randy Smith at the final buzzer lifted Cleveland over Detroit. The Cavaliers capitalized on a Western Ky. 40, Middle Tennessee 13 — Western was shut out by Morehead in front of its homecoming crowd last weekend and is still smarting from the experience.

Middle Tennessee, meanwhile, is 0-7 overall, 0-4 in the conference. But it will be anything but 0-kay after this one.

Akron 10, Morehead 3 — The surprising Eagles, 5-1-1, have allowed three points total in their last four games, but Akron should provide enough offense to edge them.

If Morehead's offense was anything like its defense, this one wouldn't be close.

Priority Mail Is Effective Service Offered By PO

One of the lesser known, but very effective package delivery services offered by the U. S. Postal Service is Priority Mail, according to Murray Postmaster Virgil Gilliam.

"When you send a package by Priority Mail, it is separated from the regular parcel mail stream and treated as First-Class Mail," said Postmaster Gilliam. "If the destination is nearby, the package receives expedited surface transportation. For all other places in the U.S., Priority Mail packages go by air."

As a result, more than 35 percent of Priority Mail packages are delivered the next day, and over 90 percent are delivered within three days. Postmaster Gilliam explained that the cost for a small package is not much more than Parcel Post and about one-third the cost of a overnight service.

For example, a one-pound package sent from New York to Los Angeles costs only $2.25. A five-pound package mailed coast-to-coast costs only $4.50.

Another advantage, says Postmaster Gilliam, is that Priority Mail delivers packages everywhere in the United States unlike competitive parcel services which cannot deliver to every address in the country. Through international agreements with over 160 countries, packages can be delivered anywhere in the world that mail is delivered. Packages for foreign countries must specify Josef Kaiser, a West German skier, is credited with creating the first grass skis in the mid-1960s. His idea caught on and soon national teams were formed to compete in the sport. The skis, varying from 25 to 31 inches long, are propelled by a nylon belt that rotates around plastic rollers fitted to a steel frame. A standard ski boot is attached to the frame.

Writing With Light Workshop Set Saturday

A workshop on "Writing With Light," offered under the Writer-In-Residence program at the Calloway County Public Library, will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 3, at the library. David Steiling, writer-in-residence in Murray on a special grant, will be the director.

The workshop, which was postponed from last week because of Murray State University's Homecoming, is open to anyone 12 or over with a special invitation to teenagers and high school teachers.

The Saturday workshop will be for persons interested in becoming more acquainted with simple photography and developing with emphasis to be on using simple and inexpensive devices to achieve a wide range of creative results. Participants will be shown how to make and use their own cameras.

Steiling said the workshop will explore several aspects of still, motion and video photography depending on the availability of equipment.

Persons may call the library at 753-2288 for more details and to pre-register.

BADGES IDENTIFY VOLUNTEERS — Volunteers throughout the Murray area are marching this week to collect money for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. These volunteers like Ethelyn Loberger, above, will be wearing a Danny Thomas badge when they call on citizens of Murray. Marie Forrester, campaign chairman, said that volunteers asking for support of the leading childhood cancer research center in the world will be clearly identified by a paper badge they will be wearing. "When our marchers come to your door, please give whatever you can to help save children's lives," Marie Forrester said.

Money collected will go to help St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in its fight against catastrophic childhood diseases. Children suffering from leukemia, Hodgkin's Disease, and other forms of cancer as well as muscle disorders, rare blood diseases and other dreadful illnesses are treated completely free of charge. Research results obtained at the institution are freely shared with scientists and physicians all over the world so that work done at St. Jude's benefits children everywhere.

Forrester urged all town residents to support the Monday march. The local march is sponsored by Alpha Mu Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. "Please be generous," Marie Forrester said, "and help us help children live throughout the world."

ESP Expert To Give Demonstration At MSU

Russ Burgess, internationally known for his ESP demonstrations and explanations will present a free lecture and demonstration at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 3, in the Student Center auditorium on the campus of Murray State University.

More than a million people have witnessed his programs, watched him read the unspoken thoughts of his audience, and heard him answer questions almost beyond the believability of the audience.

According to Jim Carter,

Russ Burgess, Lecture Insight Committee chairman, Burgess has sent him a sealed envelope containing predictions of news events for the day of his appearance. At the conclusion of the program, the predictions will be compared with actual news events of the day. Burgess is reputed to have an accuracy rate of 87 percent.

Another highlight of the performance, according to Carter, is when Burgess chooses from several keys one which unlocks a box containing his check for the appearance. If he chooses the wrong key, he does not accept payment.

For his hypnosis demonstration, Burgess will ask for about 20 volunteers from the audience.

The program is sponsored by the Student Government Association and is one of the events planned for Senior Fall Day for seniors from area high schools.

Hammack Named President Of Oral History Group

Dr. James W. Hammack, director of the Forest C. Pogue Oral History Institute at Murray State University, has been named president-elect of the Oral History Association.

Hammack's election came this past weekend during the organization's 14th annual colloquium at the Kellogg Center for Continuing Education at Michigan State University, Lansing. Also attending the meeting were Dr. Terry Strieter and Dr. Melvin E. Page, both faculty members in the Department of History at Murray State.

Hammack, an associate professor of history at the university, also served as the program chairperson for the Lansing meeting. Keynote speakers included Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., the Albert Schweitzer Professor of Humanities at City University of New York, and Richard G. Hewlett, chief historian of the U.S. Department of Energy.

The Lansing program included sessions on labor and coal mining oral histories and the Kentucky Frontier Service Oral History Project's program on midwifery and family nursing.

The OHA has about 1,300 members. The 230 attending the Michigan meeting included archivists, academic historians, educators, librarians and private researchers. Dr. Forest C. Pogue, a graduate of Murray State, biographer of George C. Marshall and past president of OHA, also attended.

Hammack, who received his doctorate from the University of Kentucky where he concentrated his study on early American history, has been teaching at Murray State since 1968.

In 1974, he initiated the Kentucky government and politics oral history project at the university, and since has established the Forest C. Pogue Oral History Institute on the campus with a full range of course offerings at the master's degree level.

"A Warm and Friendly Welcome Awaits You"

Endless energy source discovered.

In about 33 A.D. this great source of power was revealed, first to only 12 men, and then to the world. These twelve men were called the disciples of Christ. The awareness of this inexhaustible source of power has grown to encompass the world through many different Christian churches. The power is called Jesus Christ.

This source of energy is yours for the asking. You can hook into it by simply believing and accepting. It's as simple as follow-the-leader.

We hope you will look upon the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) as a natural outlet in your search for the power beyond yourself.

Prepare now for that time when you will need more energy and power than a human being alone can muster. Find the church home that will help you achieve all that God planned for you.

We want to help. Come in this Sunday and let's work on it together.

FUTURE TRACK STARS? — The Robertson Elementary afternoon kindergarten children enjoyed becoming track stars with the instruction of Altha Parham, above, of Murray, a Murray State University participant. The children learned the "start" position and participated in races. ROTC Graduates Reunited During Oct. 26 Banquet

Graduates of the Murray State University Reserve Officers' Training Corps reunited Oct. 26 at a special ROTC banquet held at Stewart Stadium. Lt. Col. Randall G. Rount, chairman of Murray State's Military Science Department, presided at the event.

Brig. Gen. William C. Louisell, assistant division commander for operations, 101st Airborne Division (Air Assault), Fort Campbell, Ky., was the guest speaker. Mrs. Jo Curris, wife of Murray State President Constantine W. Curris, was also in attendance. She presented certificates honoring three ROTC alumni.

Lt. Col. Charles M. Outland, MSU's director of resource analysis and reporting, was recognized for being the first four-year graduate of the Murray State ROTC program.

Capt. Ernie Vande Zande of Fort Benning, Ga., Marksmanship Detachment, was also honored. A native of Alexandria, Va., he served as co-grand marshal for MSU's Homecoming parade. He is well known on campus for his outstanding accomplishments as a marksman. While at Murray State, he was All-America three times, and was a member of the 1968 national championship team.

In 1975, as a member of the U.S. rifle team at the Pan American Games, he won a gold medal. Capt. Vande Zande was also on the 1979 championship U.S. rifle team at the Pan Am competition in Puerto Rico. The team won a gold medal in air rifle competition and a gold medal in the English (prone position) match. He won an individual silver medal as well. Another Murray grad, Mike Gross, now a graduate student and assistant coach at MSU, was a member of that Pan Am team.

Both men advanced to Seoul, Korea, as members of the U.S. team in the world championship matches. The U.S. squad finished second, being defeated by Switzerland by only two points. Capt. Vande Zande is a top contender for a position on the U.S. rifle team which will feign the 1980 olympics.

The third presentation made at the banquet honored Lt. Col. Charles McGaw, a charter member of the Scabbard and Blade organization, established in 1956 while he was a Murray student. He is currently assigned to the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

ROTC SPEAKER — Brig. Gen. William C. Louisell, Fort Campbell, is shown addressing the first Reserve Officers Training Corps reunion banquet Saturday at Murray State University. At the left is Mrs. Jo Curris, wife of Murray State President Constantine W. Curris and who assisted in several award presentations. Democratic Judges Pledge Support

By HERBERT SPARROW
Associated Press Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A group of Democratic county judge-executives, saying they want to "put to rest rumors" that local officials are not backing gubernatorial candidate John Y. Brown Jr., have pledged their full support to the entire ticket in Tuesday's election.

"We Democrats stand more united today than ever," Marshall County Judge-Executive Mike Miller told a news conference Thursday. "We want to put to rest rumors being circulated around Kentucky by the opponent of Mr. Brown that most county officers are not supporting the Democratic ticket," Miller said.

Miller implied that GOP gubernatorial nominee Louie B. Nunn has claimed local officials resent Brown by passing them and will not support him.

Miller said he and five other county judges polled Kentucky's 92 Democratic county judges and 91 pledged to support Brown.

Miller said one judge, not identified, was committed to Nunn by personal and family ties.

Miller, president of the Kentucky Association of County Judges, said the endorsement was not by the association, which also represents Republican county judges, but was by county judges as individuals. Approximately 15 attended the session.

Brown, who was there, promised to seek the judges' advice if he is elected. "You have that commitment."

"I look forward to working with you," Brown said. "I look upon the county judge as part of the management team of the governor."

Brown, who has disavowed the old-time politician, told reporters later he realized some local officials worried about their place in his administration. "I haven't had a chance to get around to all 120 counties to sit down face-to-face with local officials, which is what they are use to," Brown said. "But I have tried to make room for them, such as getting them involved as co-chairmen."

Brown Car Caught Speeding

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State Police have reported that a car carrying Democratic gubernatorial nominee John Y. Brown Jr. and his sister, Mrs. William McCann of Lexington, was stopped Wednesday on Interstate 75 near Florence for going 113 miles per hour in a 55-mile zone.

Brown said he feels that in northern Kentucky, where local problems had been great, the concern has been eased.

He said nearly all local officials attended a tri-county rally near Newport Wednesday and "they seemed excited. I think you are going to see a lot of work this last week."

Others listed on the steering committee of "County Judges for Brown" were David Pribble, Pendleton County, Jim Fallon, Hancock County, Tipton Baker, Harlan County, Harry Hoffman, Montgomery County, and Gene Cline, Carter County.

Responding to questions, Brown said his support of professional negotiations for school teachers doesn't extend to strikes or binding arbitration.

Brown said his concept would provide that school boards listen to teachers, "which I think is healthy. We need the input of teachers."

"I am not for collective bargaining but for a form of communication I feel is progressive," Brown said. "It will be one of the most progressive steps we have taken in education in many years."

That statement drew applause.

Brown claimed the only statewide teachers strike in Kentucky came during Nunn's gubernatorial term.

Brown said he would look at two proposals by the judges — to create a judges' committee in each highway district to have a say on local blacktopping projects and to establish a free telephone line to Frankfort from each county judge's office.

Later Thursday, Brown taped interview programs at WKYT-TV and WLEX-TV in Lexington and addressed about 500 people at a Rotary Club luncheon. In those sessions, he returned to the economic themes that have been a hallmark of his campaign.

As for charges that he has no governmental experience, Brown said former Govs. Bert Combs and Edward Breathitt would be "coming in and spending over a month with me" to ease the transition if Brown is elected.

Asked if any officials from Gov. Julian Carroll's administration would be retained, Brown said there probably would be a few, including state Energy Secretary David Drake.

Brown said Drake "has done an outstanding job" as director of the Kentucky Energy Research Laboratory. As for energy development, Brown said the federal Energy Mobilization Board was expected to begin committing funds for synthetic fuel plants in the first quarter of 1980.

Brown said he talked with federal Energy Secretary Charles Duncan about locating such a plant in Kentucky, adding Duncan

"felt like Kentucky certainly would be one of the target states."

The U.S. Department of Energy currently is evaluating the suitability of Kentucky coal for such a plant, Brown said.

While pointedly refusing to promise legislation or construction projects, Brown indicated the state workman's compensation law would receive his immediate attention. He said the current law discourages industries to locate in the state.

Kentucky presently is "42nd in the nation in (workman's compensation) benefits and 12th in costs," Brown said. "A businessman never would have let that legislation be written."

Louie Nunn Feels More In Step Than Brown

By JOHN WINN MILLER
Associated Press Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Louie B. Nunn says he is more in step with the people of Kentucky than his Democratic opponent John Y. Brown Jr. And he has released a poll that he believes proves it.

At a press conference Thursday at his state headquarters, the GOP gubernatorial nominee said 400 persons representing a cross-section of registered voters was polled by telephone Tuesday night.

The poll, designed by the Houston-based polling firm of V. Lance Tarrance & Associates, examined positions of Kentuckians (200 from Jefferson County, 200 from Fayette County and 100 from across the state) on seven campaign issues.

Campaign volunteers conducted the telephone poll, which paraphrased the two candidate's positions without mentioning them by name, Nunn said.

The voters were asked their opinions on abortion, collective bargaining, property taxes, gasoline taxes, revealing income tax returns and education.

Nunn said the results of the poll would be part of a 30-minute television show to be seen around the state.

"I am deeply gratified that when each candidate is examined in the only context that truly matters—where does he stand and what will he do as governor—I come out substantially ahead," Nunn said.

On most of the issues, the voters supported Nunn's position. However, on the question of candidates releasing their tax returns, a majority of the voters (48 percent to 43 percent) said a candidate has no obligation to release his returns.

Nunn, who has released his returns for the last 11 years and who has continually called for John Y. Brown Jr. to release his, said he wasn't surprised by the voters' response.

"I have always thought that maybe it was unfair for a man to have to prove his honesty and integrity," he said. "But ever since the press has insisted on the right to know, I concluded that all public officials should join with the press and let the right to know be brought forward."

He said the public has a right to the returns "particularly in light of his (Brown's) claims that he is the greatest businessman of all times."

Asked if the thought the questions on the poll fairly presented the candidate's positions, Nunn held up newspaper clippings and said that the questions were drawn from the press.

"I think the questions are fair, because the pollsters are putting their reputations on the line and because we have these clips giving Brown's position."

But one of the questions asked, "One candidate wants to raise the (9 cent gasoline) tax with the rate of inflation.

The other candidate wants to keep the tax the way it is. Which one comes closest to your view?"

Almost 80 percent of the respondents said they favored keeping the tax the way it is. However, Brown has never said he wants to tie the gasoline tax to inflation. Brown has said that he might have to do so if elected to replenish the depleted Road Fund.

Asked about the apparent discrepancy between Brown's position and the question on the poll, Nunn again waved newspaper clippings. "When you report it, it's called news," he said. "But when I repeat it, it's called mud-slinging."

Other questions on the poll were:

—Abortion: 55 percent said they favored a candidate who opposes abortions and 38 percent said that the governor should take a hands off position on the issue.

—Collective bargaining for teachers: 53 percent opposed mandatory collective bargaining, while 37 percent favored it.

Brown has said he favors "Professional negotiations," which would not allow teachers to strike.

—Property taxes: 68 percent said they favored limiting local property tax increases while 22 percent said they opposed it.

—Education: 68 percent favored major changes in the education system and 13 percent said they favored spending more money.

According to the polling firm, the poll had a sampling error of five percent.

"This survey clearly shows that Mr. Brown's positions are out of step," Nunn said. "And it helps to confirm the feeling I have that the momentum of this campaign is on our side."

On other issues Nunn said he doesn't expect a large turnout on election day, which he said could work to the advantage of the best organized candidate.

Asked about Brown's claims that he is ahead in the polls, Nunn said, "In 1967 the closest the polls show me was 7 percent, and I won by 30,000 votes."

Carter Plan Headed For Action

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's plan for $1.5 billion in loan guarantees to help Chrysler Corp. appears to be headed for swift action by a House panel, but faces doubts and delays in the Senate.

A spokesman for the House Banking Committee said its subcommittee on economic stabilization hopes to question Treasury Secretary G. William Miller within a few days and act on the proposal next week.

Approval by the full banking committee is expected to follow quickly, sending the measure to the floor, where both supporters and opponents have predicted it will pass.

In the Senate, however, Sen. William G. Proxmire, D-Wis., banking committee chairman, said he would begin hearings Nov. 19 and continue them "until the many issues involved have been thoroughly explored and discussed."

Proxmire is an outspoken opponent of government aid to the nation's No. 3 automaker, which has said it expects to lose more than $1 billion this year.

Sen. Jake Garn of Utah, ranking Republican on the banking committee, said, "A lot of questions must be answered before I would even consider committing public funds for loan guarantees."

Garn said the plan is based on assumptions by Chrysler which may not be realized, including ample fuel supplies, inflation of around 8 percent and a 20 percent increase in the company's share of the U.S. auto market.

"If one of the assumptions does not materialize — if the economy turns out to be worse than expected — then Chrysler financing needs may be even greater than projected, and its hopes for recovery diminished," Garn said.

A supporter of loan guarantees, Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., also questioned portions of the administration proposal.

The plan outlined Thursday by Miller is conditioned on Chrysler obtaining an additional $1.5 billion, without loan guarantees, from banks, state and local governments, its workers, dealers and suppliers and the sale of its own assets.

"This raises several questions," said Levin. "Is it a practical, achievable requirement? Does Chrysler have to have all these commitments in hand before it can draw on the federal loan guarantees? What constitutes a commitment? Who will make that determination?"

"We also want to know how much involvement the federal government might seek in the management of the corporation," Levin said.
